

Mr. Napurano is quite correct. CW must be maintained as a requirement for radio communications. There are now SO many forms of communication, that the different modes are creating 'brotherhoods' of their own. The only common thread that can maintain the traditional fraternity and keep a vital national resource (amateur radio) alive and vibrant is Morse Code! The requirement should be maintained for all modes. In fact, we should return to higher standards.

Please DO NOT eliminate the code...
